DETAILED ACTION

The examiner acknowledges of the cancellation of claims 1-5 in the Preliminary Amendment filed on February 10, 2004.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

- (e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.
- 2. Claims 6-8 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Hsieh (6564986).

Regarding claim 6, Hsieh discloses [see Figs. 4-5] a test assembly (assembly 200) for an integrated circuit package, the test assembly (200) comprising: a package substrate (BGA IC package 120A) having a plurality of first contact pads (contact pads 125) adapted for receiving solder bumps (solder balls 126) and a plurality of first conductors (bond wires 205) connecting selected pairs of said first contact pads (125); and a test board (printed circuit board 210) having a plurality of second contact pads (contact pads 215), a pair of major test pads (test pads 225-1 and 225-2), a plurality of minor test pads (intermediate pads 311-315 shown in Fig. 7 connected to printed circuit board 310) connected to selected ones of said second contact pads (215), and a plurality of second conductors (conductive lines 220) connecting selected pairs of the second contact pads (215), wherein all of the second contact pads (215) are divided into a plurality of groups such that all of the second contact pads (215) in the same group are arranged in a line [see Fig. 5], wherein, when the package substrate (120A) is mounted on the test board (210) with each of said solder bumps (126) soldered to one of the first contact pads (125) and one of the second contact pads (215), all of the pairs of connected second contact pads (215) and the corresponding pairs of connected first contact pads (125) form a conductive path [known as daisy chain] that passes through all of the solder bumps (126) [see col. 5, lines 11-21 and col. 6, lines 6-27], each of said groups of connected second contact pads (215) and the corresponding connected first contact pads (125) form a closed circuit through all of the solder bumps (126) there between when said major test pads (225-1 and 225-2) are probed, and when one pair of the minor test pads (311 and 312) is probe, only one of said groups of the second contact pads (215) and the corresponding connected first contact pads (125) form another closed circuit through all of the solder bumps (126) there between.

Regarding claim 7, Hsieh discloses all of the second contact pads (215) belong to the closed circuit when the major test pads (225-1 and 225-2) are probed.

Regarding claim 8, Hsieh discloses the package substrate (120A) is a ball grid array substrate [see col. 1, lines 20-21 and col. 4, lines 50-54].

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. Zhao et al (6207476), Goto et al (6245599), Brooks et al (6326244) Huemoeller et al (6534391) and Yoneda et al (5654243) disclose a method and apparatus for fabricating a semiconductor package and testing a solder bumps.
